Q16 Many people find that caring for another person is a labour of love, but there are drawbacks as well.

Please could you look at this card, and tell me your answers to these four questions?

Questions on card:

First, how often do you feel under pressure because of your caring responsibilities?

How often does your caring role make you feel happy that you are able to help someone?

And how often do you feel resentment because of your caring responsibilities?

And how often do you feel a sense that you are giving something back?

SECTION C: Social Care for Older People

The government in Northern Ireland is looking at how social care for older people should be paid for and how it should be provided. We would like to ask everyone their views on this. Social care for older people is the help with daily activities like washing and dressing that people can get from professional services, either in their own home or in residential homes.

USOCCARE

- Q1 Can I just check, are you yourself getting any of this kind of help in your home at the moment? For example carers coming to help with washing, dressing, cooking or housework? Or Meals on Wheels being delivered? CHECK THAT THIS IS FROM PROFESSIONAL SERVICES AND NOT FROM FAMILY OR FRIENDS

ASK ALL

- Q11 Supposing an older person needs so much help with daily living that they need to move into a care home. There are different ways that this care home could be paid for. How fair are each of these? SHOWCARD

	Very fair	Quite fair	Neither fair nor unfair	Quite unfair	Very unfair	DK
PAYSC1 Everybody has to pay for their own care even if that means selling their home. Once your money has gone the government will step in and pay for the rest.	1	2	3	4	5	8
PAYSC2 Nobody has to sell their home to pay for care but if you have savings you will have to use that money to pay part of the costs until you have spent a maximum of £35,000 of your own money and then the government will step in and pay for the rest.	1	2	3	4	5	8
PAYSC3 Nobody has to sell their home to pay for care but if you have savings you will have to use that money to pay part of the costs until you have spent a maximum of £72,000 of your own money and then the government will step in and pay for the rest.	1	2	3	4	5	8
PAYSC4 The government provides totally free care for everybody by having a special tax that you pay over your lifetime until you need care. Everybody has to pay this tax even if they don't end up needing any care.	1	2	3	4	5	8

NISCNOW

Q12 What do you think happens at the moment in Northern Ireland?

ELREC1

4. At the moment some of the information that your GP has about you can be passed to any other part of the NHS. So for example if you have an accident and arrive in hospital as an emergency the hospital can quickly check on their computer for blood tests or medications you are taking so that they know how to treat you best. Do you think that passing on information like this throughout the NHS is acceptable or unacceptable?

CNSHARE1-CNSHARE9

If answered 'No probably not' or 'No definitely not' to any Q4-8.

9. What is your biggest concern about allowing these kinds of information sharing?

--

The next questions are about health research and when it is acceptable to share information if it is for the good of patients now and in the future.

LINK1

10. Suppose some university researchers are studying the causes of Parkinson's disease. They are allowed to see bits of health records including medical information about patients as well as their age, sex and occupation. However they are not allowed to see names, addresses or postcodes. But the researchers are very keen to know roughly where patients live because some people think that there is a link between Parkinson's disease and living near fields where pesticides have been used. There is an easy way that the NHS staff could link the postcodes of their patients to other agricultural data held to see how close the nearest fields are. Should the NHS staff be allowed to pass on the distance to the nearest fields while still keeping postcodes private? SHOWCARD

Yes definitely	1
Yes probably	2
No probably not	3
No definitely not	4
Other answer (WRITE IN)	5

LINK2

11. Do you think that the NHS staff should be allowed to pass on the patients' actual postcodes to the researchers and let them link it with the agricultural data? SHOWCARD

Yes definitely	1
Yes probably	2
No probably not	3
No definitely not	4
Other answer (WRITE IN)	5
Don't know	8

LINK3

12. And suppose researchers wanted to find out if babies born prematurely did less well at school so that in future such children should automatically be considered for extra help in the classroom. If the people who keep hospital records link them to school records and pass the researchers this data without names or addresses or other identifiers then the researchers can look at the patterns in the data. Do you think that this should be allowed? SHOWCARD

Yes definitely	1
Yes probably	2
No probably not	3
No definitely not	4
Other answer (WRITE IN)	5
Don't know	8

CONSENT1

13. Some people think that you should not be allowed to link data in these ways unless you have the consent of each individual patient - even if this means that the research might have to be abandoned because of difficulties contacting patients. Other people think that consent is not necessary in cases like these. Which of these three statements comes closest to your own view? SHOWCARD

It isn't necessary to ask for consent for linking data in these ways as long as there is a guarantee that nobody will be identified	1
You should always have try to get consent when you can but if the difficulties are too great important research should not have to be abandoned for this reason	3
You should always have to ask for each individual patient's consent before linking their data with anything else and you will have to abandon the research if there are difficulties contacting people	2
Don't know	8

14. How important are each of these safeguards for using this kind of personal information for academic research by university researchers. SHOWCARD

		Important	Neither important nor unimportant	Unimportant	DK
SAFEG1	The research must have a clear public benefit	1	2	3	8
SAFEG2	Names and other things that could identify someone must always be taken off	1	2	3	8
SAFEG3	The researchers must go through checks to ensure that they are properly trained and working for an approved organisation	1	2	3	8
SAFEG4	Every project must have official approval	1	2	3	8
SAFEG5	The researchers have to go to one of the dedicated secure data centres to do their analysis	1	2	3	8
SAFEG6	The statistical results of the research must be made public	1	2	3	8
SAFEG7	There are penalties if researchers breach data security	1	2	3	8

COMSAFEG

15. And supposing the research using personal information was being carried out by commercial organisations, should they be subject to the same safeguards as university researchers, more safeguards or less safeguards?

Same safeguards	1
More safeguards	2
Less safeguards	3
Other answer (WRITE IN)	5

16. There are many commercial organisations such as drug companies who could be allowed to use some NHS patient information under the same strict regulations as university researchers. Suppose a company has developed a new drug that could be used to cure Alzheimer's disease. They have asked the NHS for access to some patient information - without names or addresses – so that they could work out which kinds of patients might benefit the most. This kind of information would help the company to apply for the drug to be made available for the most appropriate patients. How much do you agree or disagree with each of these SHOWCARD

	Agree strongly	Agree	Neither agree nor disagree	Disagree	Disagree strongly	Don't know
PHARMA1 I would like them to get access to patient records because we will all benefit if they can find a cure for Alzheimer's disease	1	2	3	4	5	8

PHARMA3 I don't want them to get access at all because they should pay for all their own research and trials.	1	2	3	4	5	8

17. How much do you agree or disagree with each of the following statements?
